the Tax Rate Limit Law

By a decision of the Miami County Court of Appeals the mith one per cent tax rate !imit law is threatened. Indeed which flies across the sun's last nder the decree of the Miami county court, the bars of the aw have been laid down leaving a gap big enough to drive four horse team through. If the bars are not put up again of my wide wings; and as we stood w the court of last resort in the state tax rates may be exsected to shoot skyward.

The particular question is one which involves the appliation of the law to road building and road repair.

The decision of the Court of Appeals and the lower court hile in harmony with each other are at direct variance with the opinion of the attorney general and the tax commission.

Briefly the courts hold that the county commissioners may levy taxes and raise funds to improve the roads when hev have been washed out by floods, freshets, landslides, or ther casualty or by reason of the large amount of traffic hereon or inattention to the repair there of they have beome unfit for travel.

This practically removes the limit of the law and will, urday and Sunday, with probably of course, permit of a big boost in rates.

The redeeming feature in connection with such a contruction of the law, however, is the fact that the increased Saturday; Sunday generally fair. axes must go to the building or repair of roads.

There is no doubt that a considerable part of our bad fair Saturday and Sunday mads is due to lack of funds and the inability to raise enough meet demands.

If the courts could have, at the time they discovered the rap in the fence, placed a bar to extravagant overhead ex penses in road construction, everybody would have applauded

Of course though the courts must take the law as the egislature writes it and deal with it accordingly.

Thus one of the most talked about "economy measures" more than threatened.

loping for Adjustment

The first shock occasioned by the knowledge that Presilent Wilson had sent to Germany a virtual ultimatum on the abmarine issue over, and with a return of calm judgment the American people are beginning to hope that the German govmment will accede to the demands of the United States and has avert the threatened break in diplomatic relations.

Ambassador Bernstorff, the Kaiser's displomatic repreentative to the United States, is known to have forwarded to is home government, following the sending of the last note f President Wilson, some facts, opinions and recommendations. Just what Ambassador Von Bernstorff told his govemment is not known, but that he recommended compliance with President Wilson's demands is everywhere, in official circles, accepted as certain.

Von Bernstorff has labored ably and earnestly, under the most trying circumstances, to maintain peace. His statements of conditions and public sentiment in this country have been accepted by Berlin in other crises, even over the objection of the war party, and it is hoped and generally believed that in the present crisis his recommendations will be follow-

Von Bernstorff, in a veritable web of deceit and intrigue of some of his more rabid fellow countrymen has remained above suspicion of wrong deing. Washington has confidence in his integrity and sincerety of purpose Berlin has all that and a high regard for his judgment.

The German ambassador to the United States stands out as the big diplomat of Germany and his services to his country have been invaluable.

The Tuesday Primary

The state wide presidential preference primary election is due to arrive in Ohio next Tuesday and there is no reason to suppose that it will be delayed in transit or annulled.

At that time the voters of the two major political parties will express their choice for their candidate for president, select a large number of delegates to the national, state and district party conventions scheduled to be held in the near fu-

There does not seem to be a great amount of excitement in Ohio over the pending conflict. There is not much of a fight on hands in either one of the political parties as to the choice of presidential candidates. In both parties, as a matter of fact, all chance of a disagreement is eliminated by the fact that there is only one real candidate

The Republican voters have decided to present the "favorite son" badge to ex-Senator Theodore Burton, while the Democrats have decided that President Wilson will answer every purpose as a candidate for their party.

Henry Ford's name has not been entered in the contest and that saves some excitement.

There are some more party contests coming on shortly after the April primary which give promise of a return of a genuine political turmoil.

On the whole the people of Ohio may be congratulated on the battle line up for the next Tuesday contest. It promises to be a pretty quiet enjoyable, gentlemanly sort of an affair.

The Children's Easter Eggs

HE Pinkerton children were feeling very excited. It was Easter Saturday, and mother was taking them out to buy some Frank when the children had succeed-Easter eggs. She had given them each 50 cents and told them they could buy whatever eggs they liked themselves.

And so, talking of their plans, Molly, Frank and Jack kept running on in front of mother to have more time to look into the shop windows and running back again to her to tell her what they had seen.

"Boys," said Molly as they neared the corner of the street, "we mustn't forget Tinker's penny, must we?"

Tinker was a blind man's dog. The blind man always took up his stand Martin Kennedy, one of Sabina's on the very same corner, and the chillead, making frantic efforts to get loose and run to meet them.

It was Molly's turn to give the blind There are a number of unsecured made her way to where the blind man man a penny that morning, so she was seated. But he was all alone. There was no asked as if in one breath. "Oh, don't tell us you've lost him!" Molly said. The old man shook his head, and they noticed how sad he looked.

"Bless you, dears," he said, "it wouldn't be easy to lose Tinker; he never leaves my side. No, it's worse than that!" "What is it? Please tell us," said

"Tinker's ill," said the blind man.

"Why not send him to the vet.?" ask-

The blind man shook his head in a pitiful way. "I've no money to pay for vets., I haven't. He'd charge a dollar and a half."

The children looked at each other in dismay. Was dear little Tinker to be killed because his master had no money to pay to get him well again? What a dreadful shame it seemed! "We've a dollar and a half between us," Frank said. "Yes, it would just do it." said Molly.

"Let's ask mother if we can give the money to him," said Jack. And together they ran back to mother with their request.

Mother thought a few moments before replying, and then: "Do you realize what this will mean, children?" she asked. "There'll be no Easter eggs for you this year if you give your money away." Molly couldn't help thinking for just a minute of the beautiful chocolate egg she had promised herself, and the boys thought of the eggs they were to have bought, too, but they quickly put all such thoughts out of their minds.

The Pinkertons found things rather dull on Easter Monday. Just then there was a ring at the doorbell. The children ran to the nursery window to see who it could be. A taxi had drawn up at the curb and who was that getting out of it? Why, no one else but Uncle Joe! "How jolly!" said Jack. "Let's run down and see him." Uncle Joe was a good sort. He remped with them as if he were a child himself and was always making up all sorts of new games for them to play. "Let's play 'Indians,'" suggested

And so, talking of their plans, Molly, Frank and Jack kept running on in front of mother to have more time to look into the shop windows and running back again to her to tell her what they had seen. "Boys," said Molly as they neared

man a penny that morning, so she made her way to where the blind man was seated. But he was all alone. There was no

Tinker there!

Where's Tinker?" the three children asked as if in one breath. "Oh, don't tell us you've lost him!" Molly said. The old man shook his head, and they noticed how sad he looked.

"Bless you, dears," he said, "it wouldn't be easy to lose Tinker; he never leaves my side. No, it's worse

"What is it? Please tell us," said Frank. "Tinker's ill," said the blind man.

"Why not send him to the vet.?" ask-

The blind man shook his head in a pitiful way. "I've no money to pay for vets., I haven't. He'd charge a dollar and a half."

The children looked at each other in dismay. Was dear little Tinker to be killed because his master had no money to pay to get him well again? What a dreadful shame it seemed! "We've a dollar and a half between us," Frank said. "Yes, it would just do it." said Molly.

"Let's ask mother if we can give the money to him." said Jack. And together they ran back to mother with their request. Mother thought a few moments before replying, and then:

"Do you realize what this will mean, children?" she asked. "There'll be no Easter eggs for you this year if you give your money away." Molly couldn't help thinking for just a minute of the beautiful chocolate egg she had promised herself, and the boys thought of the eggs they were to have bought, too, but they quickly put all such thoughts out of their minds.

The Pinkertons found things rather dull on Easter Monday. Just then there was a ring at the doorbell. The children ran to the nursery window to see who it could be. A taxi had drawn up at the curb and who was that getting out of it? Why, no one else but Uncle Joe!

"How jolly!" said Jack. "Let's run down and see him." Uncle Joe was a good sort. He remped with them as if he were a child himself and was always making up all sorts of new games for them to play.

"Let's play 'Indians,'" suggested ed in coaxing their uncle to come out into the garden with them.

"And look here!" alm shrieked Molly in her excitement, "I found a chocolate egg filled w creams. Just like the one I had men to get." And then Jack found a b full of tiny eggs just behind a lau bush. You can imagine how pleas he was.

The children found lots of oth eggs besides. It was a curious thin though, that Molly had found exact egg she had wanted, and so Frank, and so had Jack.

They asked Uncle Joe if he could e plain it, but he couldn't and no o else could.

"I'm so glad we gave our money! Tinker," said Molly later on. isn't it lovely to have had the "crumptious Easter eggs too!"

Miss Ruth Reid a pupil of Miss Minnie Light entertained thirty invited guests at a beautiful piano recital, Friday evening at Miss Light's studio.

She was assisted by Miss Ada Woodward, soprano.

Miss Reid, young as she is has already won positive recognition in Washington's musical circles as possesing real pianistic talent and an amount of temperment rarely found in youthful performers.

In Friday night's recital she gave a varied and ambitious repertoire which fully demonstrated her bril- bus Friday. liancy of technique and ability. Her rendition of Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata" was a triumph and Gottschalke's "Last Hope" played exquisitely, and the most beautiful number of the program. Investigation Conducted By General Hugh Scott.

VIEW OF ARMY OFFICERS

Continuation of Pursuit of General Villa Can Not Be Efficiently Continued Unless Important Changes In Tactics Are Made-Carranzistas Concentrating at Parral to Menace Further American Advance.

San Antonio, Tex., April 22,-That General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff, soon will admit the futility of continuing the pursuit of Villa under existing circumstances, is the opinion of American officers here.

It is believed at departmental headquarters that the investigation General Scott has been asked to make will not keep him here more than a day or two at most, since there are in the possession of Major Malvern-Hill Barnum, General Funston's chief of staff, the details of the records of the campaign, since the troops crossed into Mexico, opposite Columbus, N M., and this has been subject to General Scott's inspection. If he decides te go to the border, however, another day would be consumed in travel and that much more delay made in the decision of the secretary.

General Pershing's army continued its inactivity, awaiting instructions from General Funston, which he was unable to give, pending the determination and announcement of the administration's policy regarding the ounitive expedition. Secretary Baker's assertion that there had been no change in this respect and that the pursuit of Villa would be continued, was taken Ly military men to reflect the wishes of the administration, but unless important changes in tactics are used the continuation of the pursuit of Vil he can not be efficiently continued. they declare. The war department has been fully informed on this phase of the situation by General Funston

General Pershing made a brief re port to General Funston, informing him of the positions of troops, but no mention was made of any movements. either by Mexican or American troops

Dispatches tell of a further move ment of Carranzista forces in the di rection of Parral, where large bodies of Carranzistas are reported to have been concentrating to resist a further advance of the American forces in pursuit of Villa. The dispatches state that the garrison at Colonia Morelos in the state of Sonora, has suddenly evacuated that city and has crossed Into the state of Chihuahua under or ders to join the other Carranza forces

Japan Objects to Exclusion Feature of Measure.

Washington, April 22.- Japan has renewed Ler objection to provisions in the pending immigration bill, which are construed as virtually enacting icto law the celebrated Root-Takahira sgreement for the restriction of immigration to the United States and as including Japanese with Hindus in an excluded class

The administration, it was said fears no difficulty in arranging the terms of the bill so as to avoid wounding Japanese feeling and to that end

Price now $1090. Three years ago this car would have cost you $2000.

She's active, lacks "nerves," and very modern—the 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers

She's active, full of life, lacks "nerves," and delivers a terrific wallop with only the slightest effort.

I mean by that a power-wallop. Because she turns up 3400 revolutions per minute. Her crank shaft speed surpasses that of any other American

Though there are three built in the U.S.A. that get a bit beyond 3100 r. p. m.

It's like an electric fan, which turns up 4000 r. p. m., or a turbine which does around 4300.

Of course, the Chalmers engine doesn't hit 3400 all the time. 3400 is the maximum. When the car is running 5 miles an hour she turns up 250 r. p. m.

At 10 miles an hour she does 500 r. p. m. At 15 she does 750. At 20, 1000. At 30, 1500.

So you see the engine isn't hitting the highest speed at the slower car speeds—those speeds you drive 90 per cent of the time.

In a way it's like horse-power. You say the horse-power of your car is 40. You mean by that the maximum is 40.

Yet at 10 miles an hour you are using probably less than 10 h. p. While at 20 miles an hour you are using about 17 or 18 h. p. And so on.

3400 r. p. m. is just another way of stating horse-It's the modern way. Because it shows power through supreme engine speed and not through large bore and stroke, which means a brute of an engine, and hence a vehicle of great weight.

The day of such a car has gone by. You and I want a light, spunky beast that responds to the slightest touch of the accelerator, that pulverizes hills, that drives straight as a sunbeam, that has the lure in her lines, and obeys.

That's the 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers. I've never had any person buy one and tell me she wasn't there. For she is-100 per cent.

Run in and I will show you a car that has doubled my business.

Ask me about our service inspection coupons. They are negotiable with all Chalmers dealers everywhere. This system is a most important consideration in buying your car.

President wuson soon will confer with house and senate members.

Viscount Chinda, the Japanese ambassador, who already has left two reemoranda with the state department on the subject, conferred with President Wilson by appointment, which was made ten days ago. The administration, while realizing the extent of Asiatic exclusion sentiment in the Pacific coast states, is described as fully sensible of the disadvantage of agitating the long-standing controversy with Japan.

Although the senate immigration committee made some changes in phraseology, the terms of the exclusion section still are offensive to the Japanese.

SYNOPSIS.

Little Helen Holmes, daughter of General Holmes, railroad man, is rescued from imminent danger on a scenic railroad by George Storm, a newsboy. Grown to young womanhood, Helen saves Storm, now a fireman, her father, and his friends, Amos Rhinelander, financier, and Robert Seagrue, promoter, from a threatened collision. Safebreakers employed by Seagrue steal General Holmes' survey plans of the cut off line for the Tidewater, fatally wound the general and escape. Her father's estate badly involved by his death, Helen goes to work on the Tidewater, Helen recovers the survey plans from Seagrue, and though they are taken from her, finds an accidentally made proof of the survey blueprint. Storm is employed by Rhinelander. Spike, befriended by Helen, in turn saves her and the right-of-way contracts when Seagrue kidnaps her. Helen and Storm win for Rhinelander a race against Seagrue's men. Spike steals records to protect Rhinelander and Storm and Helen saves Spike from death in the burning of the courthouse.

FARMERS-

Read What Fresno County, California Offers

This rich productive California 'county is sparsely settled compared to the East. There are thousands of acres ready for industrious farmers—land that will yeild far more than the average farm land throughout the United States. Here forty acres will bring greater revenue than a quarter section in some parts of the country. The land is suitable for general farming. Alfalfa is cut six times each year yields from 11 to 2 tons per acre. Big opportunities for practical dairymen, stock men and poultrymen. Splendid climate. No severe winter.

"Christ Is Risen"

An Easter Story

N the Church of St. Vasily, situated in the fashionable quarter of Moscow, the majority of the Easter worshipers were men and women who belonged to the "gentry." But the servants and artisans and clerks mingled freely among their lords and principals, for on this morning all were brothers and sisters.

A little to one side, at the foot of the coffin containing the image which is always, used in the Easter rites, a young girl was supporting on her arm an old woman. The girl's face was pale but radiant with a spiritual adoration. Her large blue eyes were fixed upon space; her lips were slightly parted. Not far away a young man leaning against a pillar stood statuelike with his eyes fixed upon the girl. He, too, was pale, but his eyes shone with adoration of things not altogether spiritual.

Slowly the faint dawn shone through the stained glass windows, dimming the lights of the blinking candles. Suddenly the organ pealed forth a joyous tone, a chorus of voices thundered out the words, "Christ has arisen." There was an instant hush among the worshipers, and then one and all answered joyously:

"Blessed are we! Christ has indeed

The young girl at the foot of the coffin turned to her mother, exclaiming joyously, "Mother, Christ has arisen," and with her pretty lips still parted she imparted the triple kiss upon her mother's cheeks and mouth. The young man approached her tim-

"And now that our hearts are purged, Fedora, I ask you to forgive me. Let our quarrel end in peace," he pleaded. The girl flushed, and for a moment, the ardor awakened by her religious transports dimmed, her lips pouted. "Ivan," she said, after a moment of indecision, "I do forgive you. Mother

"Come home with us to breakfast," said the mother, seeing the look of pain in the young man's eyes. He questioned the girl with his eyes.

"Yes," she said, "come with us, There is room in the carriage." He entered, dizzy with happiness. They rode on in a silence that was broken only by the remarks of the mother about the service at the church.

When the carriage stopped before her imposing residence Fedora alighted quickly and vanished into the house, leaving her mother to Ivan's care. "Be of good cheer, Ivan," the mother said. "We breakfast in twenty minutes. Meanwhile make yourself at home either in the house or in the garden. You know the place so well." As Ivan walked through these old paths all the doubts and fears and hopes played again in his heart. Suddenly he forgot his anxiety. Fedora was beside him, a white lily in her hand. She had changed her gown. and there was a morning's restful freshness and grace about her lithe form and charming face.

"Ivan," she said softly, "I was wicked. Forgive me. Last night I confessed my waywardness and jealousies to the priest, and he absolved me from my sins. I prayed before the Virgin that you should come and forgive me. You did come." she faltered in a sweet tremble. "You did forgive me," she added, pushing him away gently as he tried to embrace her. "Yes, you are wicked." he whispered.

the Tax Rate Limit Law

By a decision of the Miami County Court of Appeals the smith one per cent tax rate !imit law is threatened. Indeed Which flies across the sun's last under the decree of the Miami county court, the bars of the aw have been laid down leaving a gap big enough to drive four horse team through. If the bars are not put up again of my wide wings; and as we stood w the court of last resort in the state tax rates may be exected to shoot skyward.

The particular question is one which involves the appliation of the law to road building and road repair.

The decision of the Court of Appeals and the lower court hile in harmony with each other are at direct variance with he opinion of the attorney general and the tax commission.

Briefly the courts hold that the county commissioners av levy taxes and raise funds to improve the roads when ev have been washed out by floods, freshets, landslides, or ther casualty or by reason of the large amount of traffic hereon or inattention to the repair there of they have beme unfit for travel.

This practically removes the limit of the law and will, urday and Sunday, with probably f course, permit of a big boost in rates.

The redeeming feature in connection with such a contruction of the law, however, is the fact that the increased xes must go to the building or repair of roads.

There is no doubt that a considerable part of our bad ads is due to lack of funds and the inability to raise enough meet demands. If the courts could have, at the time they discovered the ap in the fence, placed a bar to extravagant overhead ex enses in road construction, everybody would have applauded

Of course though the courts must take the law as the gislature writes it and deal with it accordingly.

Thus one of the most talked about "economy measures" more than threatened.

Hoping for Adjustment

The first shock occasioned by the knowledge that Presient Wilson had sent to Germany a virtual ultimatum on the ibmarine issue over, and with a return of calm judgment the merican people are beginning to hope that the German govment will accede to the demands of the United States and his avert the threatened break in diplomatic relations.

Ambassador Bernstorff, the Kaiser's displomatic repreentative to the United States, is known to have forwarded to is home government, following the sending of the last note f President Wilson, some facts, opinions and recommendaons. Just what Ambassador Von Bernstorff told his govmment is not known, but that he recommended compliance ith President Wilson's demands is everywhere, in official circles, accepted as certain.

Von Bernstorff has labored ably and earnestly, under the most trying circumstances, to maintain peace. His state- Petroit expressly to investigate Enments of conditions and public sentiment in this country have been accepted by Berlin in other crises, even over the objecion of the war party, and it is hoped and generally believed hat in the present crisis his recommendations will be follow-

Von Bernstorff, in a veritable web of deceit and intrigue f some of his more rabid fellow countrymen has remained above suspicion of wrong deing. Washington has confidence in his integrity and sincerety of purpose Berlin has all that and a high regard for his judgment.

The German ambassador to the United States stands out as the big diplomat of Germany and his services to his country have been invaluable.

The Tuesday Primary

The state wide presidential preference primary election as due to arrive in Ohio next Tuesday and there is no reason to suppose that it will be delayed in transit or annulled.

At that time the voters of the two major political parties will express their choice for their candidate for president, select a large number of delegates to the national, state and district party conventions scheduled to be held in the near fu-

There does not seem to be a great amount of excitement in Ohio over the pending conflict. There is not much of a fight on hands in either one of the political parties as to the choice of presidential candidates. In both parties, as a matter of fact, all chance of a disagreement is eliminated by the fact that there is only one real candidate

The Republican voters have decided to present the "favorite son" badge to ex-Senator Theodore Burton, while the Democrats have decided that President Wilson will answer every purpose as a candidate for their party.

Henry Ford's name has not been entered in the contest

and that saves some excitement.

There are some more party contests coming on shortly after the April primary which give promise of a return of time. a genuine political turmoil.

On the whole the people of Ohio may be congratulated on the battle line up for the next Tuesday contest.

It promises to be a pretty quiet enjoyable, gentlemanly sort of an affair.

Miss Ruth Reid a pupil of Miss Minnie Light entertained thirty invited guests at a beautiful piano making recipe books for the recital, Friday evening at Miss future bride. Light's studio.

She was assisted by Miss Ada Woodward, soprano.

Miss Reid, young as she is has already won positive recognition in Washington's musical circles as possesing real pianistic talent and an amount of temperment rarely found in youthful performers.

In Friday night's recital she gave a varied and ambitious repertoire which fully demonstrated her bril- bus Friday. liancy of technique and ability. Her rendition of Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata" was a triumph and Gottschalke's "Last Hope" played exquisitely, and the most beautiful number of the program. A feature of Miss Reid's playing is her perfect composure, and poise. She was warmly encored and responded again Dayton to spend Sunday with his and again with no appearance of wife at Mrs. J. N. "Do you realize what this will mean, children?" she asked. "There'll be no Easter eggs for you this year if you give your money away."

Molly couldn't help thinking for just a minute of the beautiful chocolate egg she had promised herself, and the boys thought of the eggs they were to have bought, too, but they quickly put all such thoughts out of their minds.

The Pinkertons found things rather dull on Easter Monday.

Just then there was a ring at the doorbell. The children ran to the nursery window to see who it could be. A taxi had drawn up at the curb and Investigation Conducted By General Hugh Scott.

Continuation of Pursuit of General Villa Can Not Be Efficiently Continued Unless Important Changes In Tactics Are Made-Carranzistas Concentrating at Parral to Menace Further American Advance.

San Antonio, Tex., April 22.-That General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff, soon will admit the futility of continuing the pursuit of Villa under existing circumstances, is the opinion of American officers here.

It is believed at departmental headquarters that the investigation General Scott has been asked to make will not keep him here more than a day or two at most, since there are in the possession of Major Malvern Hill Barnum, General Funston's chief of staff, the details of the records of the campaign, since the troops crossed into Mexico, opposite Columbus, N M., and this has been subject to General Scott's inspection. If he decides te go to the border, however, another cay would be consumed in travel and that much more delay made in the decision of the secretary.

General Pershing's army continued its inactivity, awaiting instructions from General Funston, which he was unable to give, pending the determination and announcement of the administration's policy regarding the ounitive expedition. Secretary Baker's assertion that there had been no change in this respect and that the pursuit of Villa would be continued, was taken Ly military men to reflect the wishes of the administration, but unless important changes in tactics are used the continuation of the pursuit of Ville can not be efficiently continued, they declare. The war department has been fully informed on this phase of the situation by General Funston. General Pershing made a brief report to General Funston, informing him of the positions of troops, but no mention was made of any movements. €ither by Mexican or American troops

Dispatches tell of a further move ment of Carranzista forces in the di rection of Parral, where large bodies of Carranzistas are reported to have been concentrating to resist a further advance of the American forces in pursuit of Villa. The dispatches state that the garrison at Colonia Morelos, in the state of Sonora, has suddenly evacuated that city and has crossed into the state of Chihuahua under or ders to join the other Carranza forces a: Parral.

Japan Objects to Exclusion Feature of Measure.

Washington, April 22.- Japan has renewed Ler objection to provisions in the pending immigration bill, which are construed as virtually enacting icto law the celebrated Root-Takahira sgreement for the restriction of immigration to the United States and as including Japanese with Hindus in an excluded class.

The administration, it was said, fears no difficulty in arranging the terms of the bill so as to avoid wound ing Japanese feeling and to that end

FRANK CHRISTOPHER.

Price now $1090. Three years ago this car would have cost you $2000.

She's active, lacks "nerves," and very modern—the 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers

She's active, full of life, lacks "nerves," and delivers a terrific wallop with only the slightest effort.

I mean by that a power-wallop. Because she turns up 3400 revolutions per minute. Her crank shaft speed surpasses that of any other American

Though there are three built in the U.S.A. that get a bit beyond 3100 r. p. m.

It's like an electric fan, which turns up 4000 r. p. m., or a turbine which does around 4300.

Of course, the Chalmers engine doesn't hit 3400 all the time. 3400 is the maximum. When the car is running 5 miles an hour she turns up 250 r. p. m.

At 10 miles an hour she does 500 r. p. m. At 15 she does 750. At 20, 1000. At 30, 1500.

So you see the engine isn't hitting the highest speed at the slower car speeds—those speeds you drive 90 per cent of the time.

In a way it's like horse-power. You say the horse-power of your car is 40. You mean by that the maximum is 40.

Yet at 10 miles an hour you are using probably less than 10 h. p. While at 20 miles an hour you are using about 17 or 18 h. p. And so on.

3400 r. p. m. is just another way of stating horsepower. It's the modern way. Because it shows power through supreme engine speed and not through large bore and stroke, which means a brute of an engine, and hence a vehicle of great weight.

The day of such a car has gone by. You and I want a light, spunky beast that responds to the slightest touch of the accelerator, that pulverizes hills, that drives straight as a sunbeam, that has the lure in her lines, and obeys.

That's the 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers. I've never had any person buy one and tell me she wasn't there. For she is-100 per cent.

Run in and I will show you a car that has doubled my business.

Ask me about our service inspection coupons. They are negotiable with all Chalmers dealers everywhere. This system is a most important consideration in buying your car.

SYNOPSIS.

Little Helen Holmes, daughter of General Holmes, railroad man, is rescued from imminent danger on a scenic railroad by George Storm, a newsboy. Grown to young womanhood, Helen saves Storm, now a fireman, her father, and his friends, Amos Rhinelander, financier, and Robert Seagrue, promoter, from a threatened collision. Safebreakers employed by Seagrue steal General Holmes' survey plans of the cut off line for the Tidewater, fatally wound the general and escape. Her father's estate badly involved by his death, Helen goes to work on the Tidewater. Helen recovers the survey plans from Seagrue, and though they are taken from her, finds an accidentally made proof of the survey blueprint. Storm is employed by Rhinelander. Spike, befriended by Helen, in turn saves her and the right-of-way contracts when Seagrue kidnaps her. Helen and Storm win for Rhinelander a race against Seagrue for right-of-way. Helen, Storm and Rhinelander rescue Spike from Seagrue's men. Spike steals records to protect Rhinelander and Storm and Helen saves Spike from death in the burning of the courthouse.

"Christ Is Risen"

An Easter Story •

N the Church of St. Vasily, situated in the fashionable quarter of Moscow, the majority of the Easter worshipers were men and women who belonged to the "gentry." But the servants and artisans and clerks mingled freely among their lords and principals, for on this morning all were brothers and sisters. A little to one side, at the foot of the coffin containing the image which is always, used in the Easter rites, a young girl was supporting on her arm an old woman. The girl's face was pale but radiant with a spiritual adoration. Her large blue eyes were fixed upon space; her lips were slightly parted. Not far away a young man leaning against a pillar stood statuelike with his eyes fixed upon the girl. He, too, was pale, but his eyes shone with adoration of things not altogether spiritual.

Slowly the faint dawn shone through the stained glass windows, dimming the lights of the blinking candles. Suddenly the organ pealed forth a joyous tone, a chorus of voices thundered out the words, "Christ has arisen." There was an instant hush among the wor-

"Blessed are we! Christ has indeed arisen!

The young girl at the foot of the coffin turned to her mother, exclaiming joyonsly, "Mother, Christ has arisen," and with her pretty lips still parted she imparted the triple kiss upon her mother's cheeks and mouth.

The young man approached her tim

"Fedora," he said in a soft, pleading voice, "let us rejoice."

She looked up at him with that same impersonal gaze in her eyes and smiled at him as if in blessing. "Yes, let us rejoice, for Christ has indeed arisen," she answered softly, lifting her face to him. He bent over her, and they exchanged the triple kiss mechanically. "And now that our hearts are purged, Fedora, I ask you to forgive me. Let our quarrel end in peace," he pleaded. The girl flushed, and for a moment, the ardor awakened by her religious transports dimmed, her lips pouted. 'Ivan," she said, after a moment of indecision, "I do forgive you. Mother wishes it. Is it not so?" She turned to her mother. Ivan silently exchanged the triple kiss with the mother.

"But, Fedora," he said, turning again to the girl, "it is not only for today you have forgiven me, is it? I cannot bear to think that.

Again the girl's brow clouded. She closed her eyes and crossed herself as if she had not heard nim.

Fedora and her mother walked slowcarriage Fedora divided the contents "Fedora," faltered Ivan. "you are so kind to the beggars, will you not be kind to me too?" "I have given all my money away," she answered, with a bit of roguish-

He flung his purse to the beggars. You know that I want to know only if we are to be friends again," he said, "Don't speak of it now." Fedora answered quickly.

"Come home with us to breakfast," said the mother, seeing the look of pain in the young man's eyes. He questioned the girl with his eyes.

"Yes," she said, "come with us, There is room in the carriage." He entered, dizzy with happiness. They rode on in a silence that was broken only by the remarks of the mother about the service at the church.

When the carriage stopped before her imposing residence Fedora alighted quickly and vanished into the house. leaving her mother to Ivan's care.

"Be of good cheer, Ivan," the mother said. "We breakfast in twenty minutes. Meanwhile make yourself at home either in the house or in the garden. You know the place so well."

As Ivan walked through these old paths all the doubts and fears and hopes played again in his heart. Suddenly he forgot his anxiety. Fedora was beside him, a white lily in her hand. She had changed her gown, and there was a morning's restful freshness and grace about her lithe form and charming face.

"Ivan," she said softly, "I was wicked. Forgive me. Last night I confessed my waywardness and jealousies to the priest, and he absolved me from my sins. I prayed before the Virgin that you should come and forgive me. You did come," she faltered in a sweet tremble. "You did forgive me," she added, pushing him away gently as he tried to embrace her.

"Yes, you are wicked," he whispered. bending over her.

"Only an Easter kiss," she whispered back lightly, pressing her lips to his cheeks and mouth.-Sonia V. Medwe deff in Chicago Tribune.
